

WHEELINGITE HEADS HUGHES ALLIANCE

Nelson Price Whitaker Will Build Up Organization In State

WHEELING, Sept. 15. — Nelson Price Whitaker, general manager of both the Wheeling Corrugating company and the Whitaker-Glessner company, and one of the best known young business men of the state, has accepted the presidency of the Hughes Alliance of West Virginia, and will at once proceed to form a strong organization in this state.

This announcement was made yesterday by George D. Porter, of Philadelphia, secretary of the Hughes Alliance of Pennsylvania, who has been spending a few days here for the purpose of launching a movement to organize a branch of the National Hughes Alliance in this state.

Mr. Whitaker has been prominent in Republican circles in recent years, and is this year a candidate for the house of delegates on the Republican ticket. He will soon announce plans for organizing the alliance.

Mr. Porter left yesterday for Clarksburg, where he will spend a few days in the interests of the organization.

The local organization will be comprised of some of the most prominent Republicans throughout the county and the object of the organization will be to advocate the Hughes candidacy. Mr. Porter has traveled throughout the majority of the eastern states and yesterday he said he believed the Republican candidates for the various offices would win by large majorities.

Leading Progressives, Democrats and regular Republicans are rallying to the Hughes Alliance in a way that augurs the development of one of the most independent organizations in the history of a presidential candidate that the country has ever known, he declared.
